Diversity and inclusion at work: facing up to the business case

Our research into diversity and inclusion at work finds that many barriers to equality exist. We make some key recommendations for people professionals to drive change:

Attracting candidates
- Review job adverts for gendered or other biased wording.
- Review talent attraction methods, including recruitment webpages and other branded resources.

Candidate selection
- Examine recruitment data to understand how diverse the talent pool is at each stage of the selection process.

Access to flexible work
- Review flexible working policies and analyse take-up in your organisation.
- Ensure jobs allow flexibility and think creatively about how jobs can be designed as flexible.

Organisational culture and policies
- Ensure organisational policies treat everyone fairly, taking an intersectional approach that appreciates that individuals have multiple, overlapping identities.

- Review existing data on pay, progression and employee survey measures, or collect additional data to understand whether employees feel the organisation is inclusive and identify barriers to progression.
